III.閱讀測驗 (36~40 題，共 5 題)

Some people, when they first arrive in North America, say that Americans and Canadians are very friendly, but after living there for a while, they change their minds. One international student explained that when he first came, people were very friendly. They helped him get settled, took him shopping, invited him for dinner, and called to see how he was. After two or three weeks, however, they stopped doing these things, and he was confused and disappointed. North Americans tend to do what is necessary to help people when they first arrive. They “go all out” doing many things to help new arrivals get settled and often make them feel like part of the family. The newcomers expect this warm hospitality to continue in the form of a solid friendship. However, North Americans expect that once people are settled and have been there for a few weeks, they will begin to do things for themselves and become independent.

36. According to the passage, how do new arrivals in North America or Canada usually feel about the local people in the countries?
(A) They are warm and friendly.
(B) They are confused and disappointed.
(C) They are cold and independent.
(D) They are demanding but hospitable.
37. When newcomers are not new anymore, what do Americans and Canadians expect from them?
(A) They should help local people more.
(B) They can continue to lead a dependent life.
(C) They must not get to know American and Canadian cultures.
(D) They are able to live independently.
38. What does the phrase “a solid friendship” refer to?
(A) A relationship that is firm and strong
(B) A relationship that is unreliable but respectable
(C) A relationship that is indirect and meaningful
(D) A relationship that is disappointing but valuable
39. What can be inferred from these passages?
(A) Generally speaking, it is easy to get along with Americans and Canadians.
(B) It is heaven for foreigners to live in America and Canada.
(C) Americans and Canadians are friendly to welcome all strangers worldwide.
(D) Hospitality is the first impression for most new arrivals in North America, yet independence is what they need to learn if they want to live there.
40. What topic might the passages deal with?
(A) Building friendships
(B) Dating
(C) Participating in social events
(D) Sharing common interests
