Similarly, people 32 need a ride can simply open an app and request a car from a nearby driver.

One of the biggest advantages of the sharing economy is that it allows people 33 money by using resources that already exist rather than buying new ones. A bicycle, a car, or even a spare room can become a source of income for its owner when it 34 by someone else.

However, not everyone is happy about this change. Some traditional businesses feel 35 because they are competing with these new platforms for the same customers. Despite this, the sharing economy continues to grow rapidly and is expected to become an even bigger part of people's daily lives in the future.
